1	Useful to interact on a scenario which would take place on a day to day basis in the neonatal unit. Good discussion on different approaches to resuscitation at extremes of viability.	1/22/2016 1:02 PM
2	It almost felt like reality. Everybody actually got into their roles as they would in a real situation	1/21/2016 7:57 PM
3	Good feedback	1/21/2016 6:51 PM
4	Learnt lots from this scenario eg, ensuring that mum always has someone with her ie a nurse if a family member/ friend is not present. Body language was another key point I took away from this session.	1/21/2016 5:45 PM
5	very relevant	1/14/2016 3:50 PM
6	It was hard to participate as a parent playing the role of the mother, I am able to empathise as a nurse but in that moment I felt so emotional and I felt that the doctor counselling me was very honest but sympathetic and I understand how that skill is something that you can only possess with empathy and experience the doctors in the group were excellent.	12/14/2015 11:21 PM
7	useful discussion, importance of approach, body language, when to think about statistics	12/14/2015 5:34 PM
8	Excellent with some excellent feedback especially about the non verbal skills in the process	12/14/2015 2:42 PM

5	Relevant	1/14/2016 3:50 PM
6	Really good to reflect on how easy time passes by in such a scenario, it has made me aware of how I participate in a team and how easy it is to not realise how much time has passed, communication is key.	12/14/2015 11:21 PM
7	useful to work through as a team and work through problem and when to stop resuscitation	12/14/2015 5:34 PM
