

European Neonatal
Ethics
Workshops
June 1st 2016

By

The Wessex-Oxford Neonatal Education
Programme
Copyright
2016

Background

Caring for neonates brings with it number of challenging situations for neonatal teams. The European Neonatal Ethics Conference is arranging a series of Pre-conference workshops on the 1st of June 2016. A team of neonatal consultants, ethics experts and legal minds have come together, using facilitated conversations, simulation and debates to address ethical, and moral dilemmas as well as difficult situations. We hope to provide a healthy atmosphere for discussion regarding ethical conundrum that we encounter in neonatal care.

Topics include

Concepts creating controversy at extremes of viability such as gestational ageism and benevolent injustice

Current evidence looking at outcomes with regards to extreme prematurity, intraventricular haemorrhage and neonates receiving therapeutic hypothermia

Current evidence addressing ethical considerations in stopping resuscitation in the delivery room

Cultural considerations during withdrawal of life sustaining intensive care on the NICU

Ethical issues in managing parental expectations, conflict and legal considerations during management of end of life care

Considerations when the team is in moral or ethical conflict with regards to the direction of end of life care

We also aim to share methods in communication through shared learning with the participants. We learn from you as much as you learn from us.

Faculty

Dr Srinivas Babarao
Consultant Neonatologist
Wirral

Dr Sijo Francis
Consultant Neonatologist
St George's

Dr Emily Harrop
Consultant Paediatric
Palliative Care
Oxford

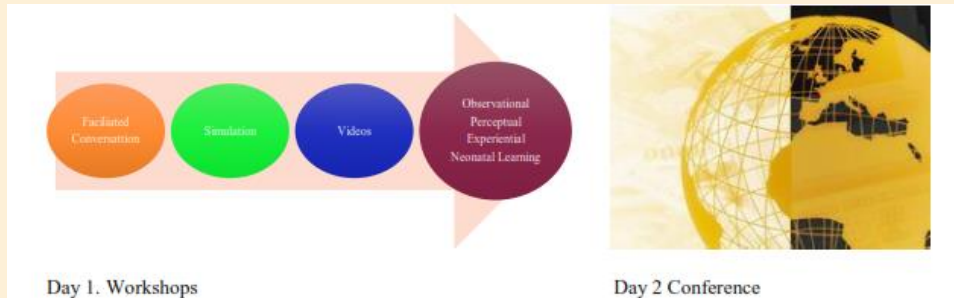

Lisa Leppard
Senior Sister
Southampton
Dr Mike Hall

Consultant Neonatologist
Southampton

Dr Alok Sharma
Consultant Neonatologist
Southampton

Dr Dominic Wilkinson
Consultant Neonatologist
Oxford

Places- 36 places are available for day 1 of the conference in conjunction with bookings made for 2 days. The workshops on day 1 build up to the main conference on day 2 which has speakers from all over Europe sharing their knowledge and practice in ethics with a neonatal focus.

Venue-The Kassam Stadium Grenoble Road Oxford United Kingdom

